

Surgical Skills Centre St George Hospital, Kogarah NSW

bokor architecture + interiors were engaged directly by St George Hospital to design and document a privately funded Surgical Skills Centre, on the hospital campus.

The centre provides valuable training facilities for medical staff with multipurpose rooms, all with state-of-the-art audio visual and simulators for advanced training.

All functional elements and building features were successfully pulled together to generate a fresh new frontage, complimentary to the site's streetscape and comprising of a clever selection of colour, materials and their systems to afford well being within the milieu, such as natural ventilation via louvres.
